Our Wine Interests.

[illegible] Washington special says: The na[illegible] of this country in some way became [illegible] opportunity and urged retaliation [illegible] wines for the unfair treatment of [illegible] by the French authorities, and as en[illegible] practically justifiable and to a deserv[illegible] It was found by those interested [illegible] statutes yet in force in forming part [illegible] system might be used with telling force against importations of French wines with no more, if as much, perversion of their real purposes than the French government had resorted to in putting its sanitary system into operation against American pork. At first there was some disposition to use these existing powers, but reluctance to injure the large American interests concerned in the French wine trade prevented it. Expectations that were entertained that a Gambettist cabinet would find itself strong enough to put an end to deceptive and unfair restrictions upon our trade with France and the opportunity which the near assembling of congress presented for proposing and procuring express legislative sanction for dealing with the subject induced a short delay. Meanwhile diplomatic efforts are continued to procure the repeal of obnoxious decrees, and hints were permitted to go out of what might be expected if the French government should persist in its unfriendly policy. The presumed effect of the intimations is seen by the officials here in the abnormal activity of the import trade in French wines and the cablegrams which tell of the impending removal of prohibitive regulations concerning American pork. Now that the French government and protectionists have been made aware of our means of coercion and disposition to use them, no further trouble to exporters of sound, wholesome pork is expected.

Bonds to be Redeemed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The secretary of the treasury to-day authorized the assistant treasurer at New York to redeem on the 30th, without rebate of interest, bonds embraced in the 105th call to an amount not to exceed $5,000,000. The assistant treasurer has also been authorized to redeem on and after Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1881, without rebate of interest, the remainder of the bonds of that call which are then outstanding. Bonds also will be paid in like manner at the treasury department in Washington on and after the last mentioned date.

The Peruvian Question.

Times Washington: The South American situation continues to attract much attention here from a remark made by one of the most prominent members of the next house of representatives. It is ascertained that the state department will be called on for copies of the instructions of Ministers Hurlbut and Kilpatrick, and all correspondence with them relating to the situation in Peru. There is expectation that both of these gentlemen will be recalled.

Northwestern Postal Changes

Smallpox and the Mails.

In consequence of the alarm caused in some portions of the west by reported spreading of smallpox, Acting Postmaster General Hatton has issued an order to the effect that where a postmaster receives official information from the health officer of any ports or towns that mail matter received is liable to communicate a contagious disease it shall be his duty to refuse to accept such mail matter. The mail returned shall be held until prohibition is removed and not be forwarded to its destination until properly fumigated.

Another Morsel.

In the Christiancy divorce case, Mary F. Lugenbeil, mother of Mrs. Christiancy, testified that Christiancy knocked his wife down in her presence and was drunk nearly all the time with his sons during her visit to Lansing, and were fighting among themselves daily. Mrs. Christiancy here interposed and became involved in a controversy with Ingersoll, Christiancy's counsel, during which she asserted Ingersoll had also been drunk with her husband.

Filley's Chances.

The latest place for which Chauncey I. Filley has been mentioned is the land commissionership of the Union Pacific R. R. Filley is here interested in securing a cabinet position, and said upon being informed of that talk about the U. P. business that it was news to him. To his intimate friends, however, Filley speaks with great confidence of being made postmaster general.

A Noble Society.

Gen. Sheridan has written Miss Clara Barton, American representative of the Society of the Red Cross, in favor of congressional recognition of the society in accordance with the terms of international conventions of leading European powers at Geneva. The chief object of the society is amelioration of the sufferings of the sick and wounded in armies during war.

Report Approved.

The president has approved the report of the government commissioners appointed to examine 200 miles of the Northern Pacific railroad recently completed in the territories of Washington and Idaho.

Report of Secretary of Navy.

Secretary Hunt has completed his annual report. The revised report of the naval advisory board is included in it. The board has settled all main points of difference, and now make a unanimous report on the best method of improving and strengthening the navy.

Remission Refused.

The commissioner of the general land office denied the application of the Atlantic & Pacific R. R. Co. to be allowed to procure government surveys of lands along its line in New Mexico and Arizona by means of depositing the estimated cost thereof under the provisions of sections 2401–'3' revised statutes.

THE U. S. MINT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The annual report of the director of the United States mint for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1881, contains in addition to customary detailed statements of operations of the mints and assay offices, much valuable information in regard to the production of the precious metals in the United States and in the world, their use in coinage of this and foreign countries, consumption in arts and manufactures, specie circulation and examination of the course of prices, comparing paper and metallic circulation for a series of 56 years, with the percentage of yearly prices to the mean prices of staple articles; indicating the annual variations in the purchasing prices of money; gold and silver received and operated upon by all the mints and assay offices, exceeding by more than $50,000,000 the receipts of any previous year, amounting to $226,225,522, of which $193,371,101 was gold and $32,854,421 silver. This large increase was due to continued influx of gold from abroad, over $95,000,000 deposited being from that source alone. The coinage facilities of the mints will be enlisted to their fullest extent in converting this bullion into coin. The gold coinage amounted to $78,733,864, of which $15,345,520 was in double eagles, the remainder in coin of lesser denominations. Coinage of silver was confined to the minimum. The value of silver bullion required to be coined by the law authorizing the coinage of standard silver dollars was $27,637,955 of which there were struck in subsidiary coins only $12,011 and of base metal or minor coins $405,109. The total coinage of silver dollars since the passage of the act for their coinage up to November first was 100,672,705 of which 34,096,827 are in circulation and 58,833,770 held by the treasury for the payment of outstanding silver certificates, leaving 7,137,608 for disbursement by the treasury in ordinary payments. The report of coinage referring to the probable restoration of silver to its former place in the monetary conciliation says: In view of the failure of the internationa monetary conference to agree upon any practical measure, and while awaiting its future action, it is a question for our own serious and early consideration whether it is desirable to suspend further coinage of silver until by international agreement and effective legislation unlimited coinage of silver and gold at common fixed rates shall be provided by the principal commercial nations of Europe and America. Should $65,000,000 in silver coin, now full legal tender in Europe, be demonetized, the United States could not stand single handed among commercial nations without European co-operation or allies to sustain the value of silver from inevitable fall. With that danger menacing us we cannot without serious embarrassment continue such coinage unless other commercial nations will agree upon the general use of silver as well as gold.

Director Burchard estimates the world's production of gold for the calendar year 1880 at $107,000,000, and of silver $87,500,000. The consumption of the world in ornamentation, manufactories and arts is estimated for the same period at $72,000,000 gold and $35,000,000 silver. Estimated circulation of the principal countries of the world is placed at gold $4,221,000,000, full legal tender silver $2,155,000,000, limited tenders $423,000,000, total specie $6,759,000,000, paper $3,044,000,000; making a total circulation, including the amount held by government treasuries, banks and in actual circulation $9,803,000,000. Upon the subject of the course of prices and indicating annual variations in the purchasing power of money in the United States, the director has prepared tables showing the average annual price both of gold and currency, leading staple articles in the New York market for fifty-six years, with the mean price of each and also the relation which the average annual price of each article bears to the mean price for the whole term of years. The mean percentage for each year of all articles named furnishes a basis for measuring the purchasing power of money and is instinctively compared with the per capita circulation and estimated wealth for each year.

Panama News Items.

PANAMA, Nov. 27.—A Star special from Magdalena says the Nickerson party arrived there Sunday evening and left on Monday for Hermosillo. They spoke very favorably of the Magdalena route that they had passed over and that the road would be constructed on that survey. A party of engineers is locating the line north of San Ignacio. Another one is here making a plat of all private land claims on the route.

The Star's Guaymas correspondent of 22d writes that the census of last week shows Americans there are increasing every stage and steamer. The Americans are getting up a petition to Postmaster James to have the mail service increased from the United States.

There are two vessels from Europe with railroad iron long overdue. Fears are entertained for their safety.

Telegraph from Alamos will reach here in two weeks which will make telegraphic communication with the United States.

Two Mexicans were sent to Hermosillo this morning to be shot for highway robbery.

CANADA.

Notes from Quebec.

QUEBEC, Nov. 28.—The steamer Polen arrived to-day with coal from Sidney. Their masts and decks were covered with a foot of ice. The crew experienced untold sufferings.

Temperature early this morning 15 deg. below zero.

The joint letter of bishops adopted in 1875, condemnatory of bribery, perjury and other abuses prevalent in times of elections and exhorting electors to vote according to their conscience, was read yesterday from the pulpits of all Catholic parishes in the province.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Guiteau's Brother Proves an Unprofitable Witness.

HE THINKS GUITEAU INSPIRED BY THE DEVIL,

And Responsible for his Deed—The Assassin Takes the Stand—Judge Cox Still Permits him to have his own way, and Furnish Amusement to the Crowd.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28

The criminal court room was densely crowded this morning. At 10 o'clock Mrs. Scoville resumed her testimony. She described Guiteau's actions during his visit to her in 1878, and said she was then convinced he was insane and should be put in an asylum.

Frequent objections were raised by counsel for the prosecution, to the character of questions propounded by Scoville, and continuous discussion ensued between counsel upon the admission of certain evidence. At times some irritability was manifested.

Mrs. Scoville was asked if she had ever before been upon the witness stand. She replied with much emphasis, "No," and "I'm no lawyer either." Mrs. Scoville's examination concluded, the cross-examination was postponed to allow George D. Burroughs, of Chicago, to testify, as he desired to leave to-day.

This witness boarded with Scoville at the time of Guiteau's visit in 1878, and made up his mind the prisoner was a fool or crazy. He was satisfied Guiteau was unsettled in intellect.

There was a brief interval before the next witness appeared and Guiteau took advantage of the opportunity and broke out with

"I desire to tell all these crank newspaper men I appear here as my own counsel. That is my answer to all the silly stuff they have been delivering themselves of for some days past. Some of these newspaper men have gone crazy. I appear here in part as my own counsel, as I have a right to do under the law and constitution of America."

No effort was made to check Guiteau and no notice whatever of the interruption was taken by the court.

P. S. Joselyn, of Oneida Community, thought Guiteau's marked characteristic was egotism.

Jno. W. Guiteau, brother of the prisoner, was examined. Hadn't been on good terms with his brother for some years; had no doubt of his sanity until he received letters in October; since he had come on here and had seen his brother in the court room and at jail, he had become satisfied he was insane.

Cross-examined—Witness admitted that before coming to Washington he had always, in talking of the case, said he believed his brother responsible, but not sane; responsible because, as he thought, at some period of his life the prisoner had voluntarily surrendered himself to evil practices rather than good.

Guiteau winced under the statements, evidently fearing his brother's candor would injure the case, and with considerable bitterness interrupted.

"My brother and I have not been on good terms for fifteen years. He always sympathized with my father on that Oneida community business, while Scoville and my sister sympathized with me. The last time I saw my brother in Boston we had some angry words. So he does not come here to testify for me with the ordinary force a brother usual y does come for. I am glad to find he has changed his views, however, in my case. I want the public to understand about this."

Guiteau continued to interrupt, explain and correct the witness. Once Judge Davidge attempted to stop him, but he waived his hand imperiously, saying, "You keep quiet, judge, if you please."

Shortly after witness was asked in connection with an incident he had related if he at that time thought the prisoner insane.

Guiteau quickly anticipated his reply by saying, "Why, of course, he has always thought I was badly cracked."

Witness said he never detected the slightest traces of insanity in his father.

Witness was questioned at some length as to Guiteau's family and instances of alleged insanity in his family. He did not know of the insanity of his aunt and two uncles except by report. On being asked by Scoville to explain what he meant by saying his brother was morally responsible, and that he was under the influence of the devil, witness explained the peculiar belief of his brother as to the counter influences of Christ and the devil which were being exercised upon mankind, and that one or the other always gained ascendency. He agreed with his father, and believed at some time his brother had, through his intense egotism and willfulness, surrendered himself to the influences of the devil, and that being a free moral agent, he was morally responsible to God for his crime. That was his understanding of responsibility in this case.

Prisoner here interrupted, somewhat petulantly, "You've got the thing wrong side up, my friend. It is very poor theology and a very poor position for you to take."

Witness—Perhaps I have, but I don't think so.

Mrs. Sarah W. Parker of Chicago, widow of Guiteau's cousin, testified to the fact of her husband's insanity and death in an insane asylum. She knew Guiteau. He visited their house in Chicago in 1876, and she forbade him to visit the house again. He fell desperately in love with witness's 14 years old daughter.

Davidge—A very common form of insanity.

Guiteau—They were very poor and I used to go down there and give them money and they seemed very grateful. In that way I became interested in the daughter. She was entirely too young for me though.

At the conclusion of the testimony given by F. W. Jones, quite a stir followed the sudden announcement by Scoville that the prisoner would now be sworn. Guiteau took the stand, pale, but otherwise unmoved. He glanced behind him somewhat nervously, and requested the officers to stand close to him. Marshal Henry and deputy and two policemen stood between Guiteau and a crowd of men who filled the small standing room between Guiteau and the door, and, apparently reassured, Guiteau took the oath, and seating himself said to Judge Cox, "I presume it is understood, judge, that I do not appear as a regular witness, but simply to identify some letters." The letters were then handed to Guiteau by Scoville and identified.

Court then adjourned.

Guiteau Interviewed.

An Inter-Ocean's Washington correspondent has interviewed Guiteau. "You read the papers, I know. Have you noticed some of them say you are endeavoring to feign insanity by your actions in court?" "Yes," replied Guiteau. "I see some of them have said so. They are all wrong, and do not understand this extraordinary case at all. I am not only defendant, but appear as my own counsel as well, and it is only proper for me to see that we arrive at the truth; that is all I want."

"I am not insane. I am just as sane as you are. I am not pretending insane, because I'm not. I'm only trying to get at the truth whether it was the deity or myself who was responsible for the shot."

"I should not think you would be so anxious to get at the truth as to save your neck. Suppose you should be found guilty and sentenced to be hanged?"

"We have not reached that point," replied Guiteau.

"Well, it may not be very far."

"The Lord has saved my life so far. I am in his hands. I will be in the lecture field within a year, and will have $50,000; then I will pay all these little debts I owe."

"Suppose the jury should find you insane?"

"Then I should be taken to the insane asylum, I suppose; until I get out, I suppose. If they convict me I would get a new trial. I don't know; but we will take care of it when we get to it."

He spoke as lightly as though he was discussing the case of a Russian nihilist whom he had never seen and in whom he felt no particular interest.

"You claim, then, you are sane?"

"I do," he said with his idiot-like smile. "In a certain sense I was insane when I fired the shot, because I was not a free agent and didn't commit the act of my own volition. I was impelled to it by a power over which I had no control, and therefore was irresponsible. In that sense I was insane. All I want is the truth to be brought out, and that is why I make these corrections as the trial proceeds."

"Will you take the stand or address the jury?"

"I may address the jury. I shall certainly take the stand and testify to the truth."

"When do you go on?"

"That is in Scoville's hands. I think though I shall come on just before the expert and make my statement."

Guiteau Examined as to Sanity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—A number of medical experts visited Guiteau in his cell yesterday and examined him critically with a view of informing themselves as to his true mental state. They held a consultation subsequent to the visit, but the doctors are reticent about the meeting. It is understood the proceedings were entirely informal and that there exists wide difference of opinion among them regarding the responsibility of the assassin for his acts.

Sickly Sentimentality.

It is said that one of the letters recently received by the assassin shows something of a change of public sentiment toward him personally, more pity and sympathy being shown and more hope of saving him from the gallows.

Southern Oregon.

Plowing has been suspended in Lake county on account of the hard freeze.

The Ashland woolen mills have just shipped about 2000 pounds of blankets to Roseburg, for the Willamette trade, and the same amount to California.

Winter is on hand in earnest in Lake county. The stock is being taken from the table lands to the valleys, and the mountains in all directions are covered with snow.

Mrs. Mary Gilmore, a resident of Oregon since 1852, died at her home in Douglas county on the 19th inst aged 89 years. Her descendants number 14 children, 60 grand children, 50 great grand children and one grand child in the fourth generation.

The stockmen of Harney and Warner valleys have arrived at the conclusion that the disorder with which many cattle have been dying in that section recently is not the blackleg, as at first reported, but a disease very similar to mountain fever. Great loss has been sustained throughout that section of the country by this disease during the past few months.

State Line Herald: Considerable freight has been ordered lately that may not reach this point until next season. Teams left Lakeview last week for the remaining lot, but it is a question as to whether or not they will be treated to an experience similar to that of last winter. The snows have seriously obstructed the mountain passes, and the rains have rendered the valley roads very [illegible].

The Oregon Pacific railroad has now four sawmills in operation between Corvallis and Yaquina bay, and two more have been ordered and will be running by January. By the time work can even up to Yaquina all the bridge, culvert and tunnel timber needed for the first [illegible] miles will be cut and framed ready for putting together.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Business Conference.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—A Tucson dispatch says: A. N. Towne, superintendent of the S. P. R. R., J. C. Stubbs, J. H. Goodman, Arthur Brown, W. G. Curtiss, and Messrs. Welch and Gage, passed here en route to El Paso, where they will meet General Manager Hoxie and officers of the Texas Pacific, and Superintendent Wheeler and officers of the A. T. and Santa Fe for a business conference.

Another Railroad Finished.

The S. P. R. R. and Texas Pacific will unite Tuesday or Wednesday. Through trains from San Francisco to New Orleans will most probably commence running on the 15th proximo, and regular through business will be established before the end of thirty days.

A New Academy.

The sum of $50,000 has been subscribed in Oakland for the Golden Gate academy and theological seminary. This secures the conditional gift by Mark Hopkins of another $50,000.

Mrs. Cooper Victorious.

Proceedings on the charge of heresy preferred by Elder Roberts of Calvary Presbyterian church against Sarah B. Cooper have at length been brought to a conclusion by withdrawal of the complaint by Elder Roberts and his withdrawal from that religious body.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The presbytery in session to-day accepted the settlement of the Roberts-Cooper heresy case made between the session and Calvary church and Roberts, and consent to a withdrawal of Roberts' complaint without inquiry into details, on the understanding that Mrs. Cooper has definitely severed her connection with the Bible class.

The Hopkins Estate.

Samuel S. Hopkins has petitioned the superior court to revoke the letters of administration on the estate of Mark Hopkins issued to Moses Hopkins on the ground that the latter has failed to file a bail bond for $13,000,000, and asks that letters be issued to the public administrator. The court gave Moses Hopkins until next Saturday to show cause why the letters should not be revoked.

A Wrecked Train.

COLFAX, Nov. 28.—Fifteen cars of a freight train were badly wrecked just above Cape Horn. Ten cars loaded with cattle and merchandise went over the embankment while the other five were piled up on the track. A few cattle were killed. The train men escaped.

Burned to Death.

BENICIA, Nov. 28.—Last evening at Port Costa, John Connolly, an Irishman, aged about 35, a stevedore, was burned to death while lying drunk in bed.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 28.—On Saturday, Juda, a ten-year-old daughter of J. F. Bose, a farmer residing near Berryessa, set fire to a stubble-field during her father's absence, and her clothing catching fire she sustained injuries which resulted in her death on Sunday.

NEVADA.

A Nevada Murder.

CARSON, Nov. 28.—Information is received of a horrible murder two and a half miles from Double springs, on the Bodie road, in Douglas county. An old man named Dowd, 60 years of age, living by himself on a little ranch, was discovered Sunday last by two Indians, lying dead in his cabin with an axe lying nearly covered with blood, and other evidences of a desperate struggle. Examination showed Dowd to have received a blow from the axe on the left side of the face and a stab with a knife in each side of the throat. The object of the murder is supposed to have been robbery. The murder is believed to have been committed about two weeks ago.

A Fearful Fall.

EUREKA, Nev., Nov. 28.—John O'Keefe, aged 18 years, employed as a water carrier in the Eureka consolidated mine, fell down the new shaft yesterday morning, a distance of 600 feet, striking the cage at the bottom and was almost dashed to pieces. The thud, as he struck, was heard at the surface.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria Notes.

VICTORIA, Nov. 28.—The steamship Hylton Castle, bound for Departure bay for a cargo of Wellington coal for San Francisco, passed up yesterday.

It rained very heavily here all day yesterday and last night, but to-day is bright and frosty.

AUSTRALASIAN NEWS.

Tewhitee, the Native Murderer, finally Captured by New Zealand Authorities—General News from Australia.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The steamer Zealandia, from Sydney, via Auckland, etc., has arrived, bringing British mails and the following news:

WELLINGTON, Nov. 5.—Rolleston, the native minister, interviewed Tewhite on the 12th of October. The acting governor issued a proclamation on the 19th warning the natives that they must accept the terms offered within a fortnight or forfeit the land awarded by the royal convention. Bryce simultaneously appointed a native minister. The constabulary is largely increased and has been proffered the services of several corps of volunteers. It has accepted a large force collected in the disturbed district, and preparations for possible hostilities are being made in accordance with previous announcement. The native minister with a force of 1800 proceeded to Pacitaka to-day and demanded Tewhite's answer to the proclamation. No reply forthcoming, the riot act was read. An hour later the native meeting house, which was densely crowded, was surrounded and Tewhite John, chief follower of Hiroko, the alleged murderer of the European in 1879, was arrested without resistance.

Revenue for the September quarter including $239,135 balance from previous quarter and $200,000 deficiency bills, $1,292,433; expenditure, $415,111; interest and sinking fund of public debt, $372,864, and land fund receipts, $1,114,230. Expenses of $53,931 for government were returned from Fiji on the 10th ultimo.

SYDNEY, Nov. 3.—A bill has been introduced in the council to legalize and regulate trades union, to enable them to acquire and hold property like other corporations.

Sir George Innes was created judge of the supreme court and sworn October 24.

The United States fish commission presented the Zoological Society with 40,000 salmon ova, which arrived in excellent condition per City of Sydney, and placed in hatching boxes at Bowenfels.

BRISBANE, Nov. 5.—Gen. Fielding, with a party exploring a railway route, arrived at Cloncurry on the 7th of October, and reported they were well satisfied with the country so far.

Chief Justice Lilley has reconsidered his decision and now accepts knighthood.

H. M. S. schooner Conflict, called at Lizard island, October 22, and found Fuller & Watson's station, strewn with books and furniture, and Mrs. Watson and child missing. The husband was visiting a distant station. A thorough search was made, but unsuccessfully. It is feared an outrage was committed by natives and parties are still searching.

RAROTONGA, Nov. 5.—A report is published that the French government intended to establish a protectorate over the island. Reuters are authorized to contradict the report.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 3.—On the government notifying the assembly the names of those appointed as an education commission with Francis Ormond as chairman, a caucus of the direct opposition was held, Berry presiding. A majority decided to support the motion of Ramsey, formerly minister of education, declaring the constitution commission unsatisfactory. The house accordingly adjourned. On meeting subsequently O'Loghlen denounced the appointment of additional members. Judge Higinbotham was further offered the chairmanship of the commission. Ramsey disclaimed his intention to endeavor to oust the government, and offered to amend the motion, but maintained it undesirable to defer to any commission questions affecting the public policy—such as alleged grievances of Catholics. O'Loghlen declared that to consider both the original and amended motions would be to vote a want of confidence, and declined to proceed with other business until they were disposed of. Debate has already occupied five sittings and is still unfinished. As a large majority of conservatives support the government, a victory of the latter is absurd. Yesternight O'Loghlen announced that Higinbotham declined the chairmanship, which was now offered Michie late agent general.

The season generally is dry, but the recent rainfall improved prospects. An average harvest is expected.

The report of the police commission, just published, severely condemns the principal officers of the force, and declares Captain Standish, late commissioner, displayed neither zeal nor judgment in the search for the Kellys, and recommends the superannuation of Superintendents Nicholson and Hare, reduction of Sadlier to the lowest grade, and the dismissal of all constables who were in the hut at the time of Sherritt's murder. Two members of the commission dissented to the above report, and it is not thought the government will act on the recommendations.

Washington Territory.

Ordnance Sergeant James Bridges, who died at Walla Walla garrison last week, had been in the army 47 years, had fought in the Mexican war and was 60 years old.

The Walla Walla county grand jury suggests the purchase of suitable grounds for the erection of an alms house, believing the same could be made a self-sustaining institution.

Walla Walla Watchman: Wood-racks last winter used to have the cramps "awful bad," but the coal at the depot and the fire wood in the Mill Creek Flume & Manufacturing company's yard has taken the cramps right out of them, and hereafter a cord of wood will be four feet high, eight feet long, making 128 cubic feet of wood and not 28 or thereabouts and the rest pure air as it used to be.

Amos Stark, who owns a fruit ranch near Columbus, Klickitat county, reports as follows concerning his crop for 1881: His orchard consists of 40 acres, but 20 acres are young trees, not yet bearing. The peach crop this year amounted to 3000 bushels, from which he will realize nearly $2000. He has dried about four tons of peaches, has shipped and sold 40 sacks of peach stones at 2 cents a pound, and has yet on hand [illegible] pounds of seed. Besides that he raised 200 bushels of potatoes, 30 tons of hay and wagon loads of watermelons of which he sold about $100 worth. Mr. Stark has about 100 acres of just such land as his orchard, with a plentiful supply of water for irrigation, and as fast as he is able will devote it to the cultivation of fruit.

Eastern Oregon.

There are several cases of scarlet fever at The Dalles.

Grass is excellent in the Spanish Hollow region, Wasco county. Much more grain is being sown in that locality than ever before.

The hospital projected by the employes of the O. R. & N. Co. in The Dalles for the care of patients among their number, is now ready for use.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

ODESSA Nov. 28.—An anti-Jew mob stoned Sara Bernhardt's carriage as she was driving home from the theater on the ground that she was a Jewish descendant. They also stoned her hotel and stopped the performance at the theater.

Nihilists Captured.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 28.—A great stir was made in the nihilist camp by the following discovery: About a year ago a Jew named G G was denounced by some person who had a private score to settle with him and was arrested. After he had been asked a few questions it became clear he was one of the chief members of the central revolutionary committee. He made a clean breast of it and denounced over sixty of his accomplices and took the police to his laboratory on the banks of the Neva, where six men were captured in the very act of manufacturing dynamite. A large supply of explosives was found in the laboratory. As a result of this treachery several persons were sentenced and two men named Ivistowsky and Porsnikiff were hanged October 8th.

A Dastardly Outrage.

CORK, Nov. 28.—A party of armed men recently entered the house of a woman named Kerans near Listevil, county Kerry, for the purpose of shooting her because she had given information to the police. The children threw themselves upon their mother in terror, and one of them received a charge of shot in the legs. The party then left the house, after making the mother swear under threats of death not to divulge the occurrence. Six persons have been arrested under suspicion of being concerned in the outrage.

Other Outrages.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—In county Clare several houses were fired into last week, of which outrages no reports are published. Resistance to paying rent is not in the least abated, but rather increased.

Irish Idiosyncracies.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The house of two persons who had paid rent was willfully burned at Knockash last evening.

Buttersfield, land league organizer for the counties of Down and Armagh, was arrested to-day.

A party of armed men forced an entrance to the house of a former named O'Keefe near Mill street, county Cork, and fired several shots at the occupant, wounding him. He had paid rent.

Humbugged Again.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife, who was always doctoring and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the bitters my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 29, 1881.

SUBSIDIES FOR SHIPBUILDING.

Before the convention of protectionists held at Chicago a fortnight since, Mr. John Roach of Philadelphia, shipbuilder, again insisted that the way to restore American shipping to the ocean was to obtain subsidies from the national treasury for building vessels at home. Of course this was in accord with the sentiment of the convention. The doctrine of taxing all industries for the special benefit of a particular industry is the essence of protection. Our laws have created and still maintain conditions under which it is impossible to build ships in the United States, and no citizen of the United States is allowed to buy a vessel of foreign build. Hence our people are practically shut out from participation in the profits of the carrying trade of the world. They cannot even carry the products of their own country to market. All our prosperity, particularly on the Pacific coast, depends on shipment of our products to foreign countries. Great numbers of vessels are constantly in our ports, but an American vessel is so seldom seen among them that the appearance of one is almost a phenomenon. Now as we want vessels why should we tax ourselves to pay subsidies for building them, when we can buy them already built for less money? The thing to do first is to repeal the navigation laws, so as to allow American citizens to buy and transfer to the national flag the ships of all other nations. This would not please men like Mr. Roach, who want subsidies, but it would be plain business and common sense.

Mr. Roach received the applause of the convention when he said he would have our government appropriate from three to five million dollars a year in bonuses to encourage the building, in this country, of one hundred iron screw steamships, in burden ranging from 2500 to 4000 tons, with a speed of fifteen to sixteen knots an hour. The money would be presented to the owners of these vessels under the cover of mail appropriations and other pretences. Mr. Roach has no doubt that the one hundred ships would be forthcoming promptly—in fact, he knows of a single man who would subscribe a quarter of the sum needed to build the whole fleet. We have no doubt that Mr. Roach would secure the contract for building a large share of the entire number, and that for his good ships he would be well paid, since he, as the principal iron shipbuilder in this country, has the best facilities for performing the work, and no fear of competition with England while the navigation laws remain unrepealed. Such is the disinterestedness of those who reap the benefits of the "protective" system. But, if the navigation laws were abolished, we could buy one hundred steamships a year, or vessels of any class or number, from foreign people, which would prove just as swift and serviceable as if $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 yearly had been presented to the owners.

The three great states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts have statutes which exempt vessels registered within their limits from taxation. Such exemption would be of great service if American citizens were allowed to buy foreign vessels and have them registered at home. But without such amendment of the navigation laws of the United States as would permit this to be done, state exemption from taxes will avail little or nothing. Another plan is to tax, not the vessel, but the net yearly income derived from it. This is the English system. It is perhaps the best of any. But these expedients will be of no avail so long as we hold to the mediæval system of commerce which is perpetuated in our navigation laws. Free trade in ships is what this country requires, and nothing short of it will be of any avail.

THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION.

President Arthur is said to be a consummate politician. So far since he became president he has certainly exhibited tact and judgment. It is well known that his associations have hitherto been with the so-called stalwart section of the republican party. It has been freely predicted that his administration would speedily assume a course which would show the paramount influence of the Grant-Conkling clique. So far, however, this prediction has not been fulfilled. The course of the president is not yet open to criticism on this account. True, it is yet too soon to tell what may happen. A new cabinet is to be formed, and until the names are announced not much can be told as to the future complexion of the Arthur administration.

Names have been freely suggested for all the cabinet positions, and the report has frequently been telegraphed that the whole matter was virtually settled. It has not escaped notice that all the names so confidently given are those of men who were active in pushing Grant for the third term; but it is as well to wait and see before forming conclusions. Selection of a pronounced Grant cabinet would indeed awaken opposition and give rise to severe criticism. More than that, it would be prolific of renewed contention in the republican party, of probable failure of the administration and, not unlikely, of defeat in the next presidential contest. It may be as well to admit the fact that it is in the power of the president to unite or divide his party at pleasure. If he be actually the sagacious politician which many have called him, he must know this; and knowing it he may be credited with a purpose to avoid a course which would make his administration a failure and bring disaster to his party.

A good deal will depend on the attitude of the president towards what is rather vaguely designated civil service reform. The people do not like the system under which the spoils system flourishes and the machine waxes strong. Behind it is the theory that senators and representatives have the right to dictate appointments and wield the power of party for their own personal ends. This means in partitioning of offices among petty politicians for services rendered, followed by corruption, scandals, protests against the system, public indignation and party defeat. It means the creation of an oligarchy in each state, among whose members the "patronage" shall be divided according to the following they can command. During the Hayes administration "the machine" was pretty badly broken up, and Garfield's beginning gave promise that it should fare no better. "The machine" cannot now be rehabilitated with safety to the administration, or with promise of future success to the republican party. It is only fair, however, to wait and see whether the president will take his proper position as leader of the people on this subject, or allow his administration to fall under the malign influence of those who see nothing in politics but the chance for spoils. The regular session of congress will open next week, and political matters will begin to attract more attention than for a year past.

The Cincinnati Commercial thinks that "General Grant's idea has been from the moment of the death of President Garfield that the thing for Arthur to do was to proceed at once to make his administration, in the factional sense, stalwart. Arthur knew better, and has thus far resisted the urgency to assault the public sentiment of the country. The air is full of rumors that the president is yielding, and will presently give way to Grant, and try a full dose of third-term stalwartism on the United States. There will be one consolation. Such a course taken by Arthur—that is, if he consents to take orders from Grant and Conkling—and James G. Blaine will be the next President of the United States."

If the public were to estimate the character of Judge Cox and his fitness for the bench by his conduct in the Guiteau trial there could hardly be a doubt as to the propriety of his impeachment and removal as one utterly incapable of filling the position he holds. The scenes he continues to permit in his court are disgraceful beyond all precedent or power of description. What makes it worse is that the eyes of the world are on this trial, which is suffered to go on in a way that belittles the American character and can appear as nothing less than a most farcical travesty of justice.

James Caird, the English political economist and agriculturist, in addressing the English statistical society a short time since, said that in the ten years ending with 1881, 828,000 acres of grain land and 228,000 acres of green crop land in Great Britain had gone out of cultivation and had been converted into permanent pasture, and that the annual return of $10,000,000 derived from these crops had thereby disappeared. Mr. Caird thinks that the agricultural depression is to be attributed to the bad seasons, and imagines that the burdens, difficulties and uncertainties of American agriculture would always place it at a disadvantage with British agriculture in the British market.

The Appletons, who stand in foremost ranks of American publishers, decline to be held responsible for the Bob Ingersollism of the North American Review, which at present bears their imprint. They have consequently published the following announcement:

> The North American Review, although published by Messrs. D. Appleton & Co., is owned and wholly controlled by its editor. Messrs. Appleton & Co., in view of recent articles that have appeared in it, will decline to act even as its publishers after the close of the present year.

The Appletons evidently think they cannot afford to lend the name of their house to the publication as recently conducted.

Guiteau's sister, Mrs. Scoville is sure the assassin is insane. She thought so years ago. The fact that the passionate and vicious scoundrel once attacked her with a hatchet in one of his "inspired" moods seems to have helped her to the formation of this opinion. But the assassin's brother, John W. Guiteau, doesn't think him insane—that is, he thinks him "morally responsible," thus doing his own head and heart great credit in entertaining the manifest opinion that he is sane enough to be hanged.

The rumored sale of a majority of stock in the Pacific Coast Steamship Company to Henry Villard has been confirmed, as will be seen in our dispatches. The sale includes not only the lines from San Francisco to Portland and Puget sound, but the railroad to San Louis Obispo and the new steamship now being built in the east for this route. The sale was consummated without knowledge of a portion of the board of directors, and was only made known at their last meeting.

Mr. Gladstone seems to be troubled by none of that delicacy which in this country restrains men from declining an honor before it is offered. Upon a mere rumor that he was to have a place in the peerage he protests that he will not take it.

PRESS COMMENTS.

"Sheridan scarcely challenged criticism. The finest Sheridan's 'Lear,' the utterly ungovernable fierceness of its temper, found strong and natural expression."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"The unequivocal and unanimous verdict of our theater frequenters and critics is that Sheridan has filled the bill with more honor than any other actor of the age save Forrest."—S. F. Post.

"Since the time of Edwin Forrest, who was the acknowledged and most successful exponent of the heroic art, to the manor born, no such triumph has been chronicled as that achieved by W. E. Sheridan, as King Lear, last evening."—S. F. Alta.

THE REPORT CONFIRMED.

Villard has Secured Full Control of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's Stock, Steamships and Railroads.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The Bulletin this evening contains the following: It being still rumored that a controlling interest in the Pacific Coast Steamship Co. had been sold by Goodall, Perkins & Co., agents of the company, to Henry Villard, W. T. Babcock, one of the directors, was interviewed on the subject. He stated in reply to the question, "Have Goodall, Perkins & Co. been agents of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co. since its organization?"

They have.

Is it true that they have sold a controlling interest in the stock of that company to Henry Villard?

It is. The board of directors were in total ignorance of the fact until last Wednesday morning, when they were told that a controlling interest in the stock of the company had been sold to the Villard company. The board were also informed that the stock held by each of the directors would be taken at $87 50 per share, less commission paid to Goodall, Perkins & Co.

Do you think it was right to take such action without consulting the directors?

I do not.

Who are the directors?

Charles Goodall, Gov. Perkins, Edwin Goodall, F. S. Wensinger, John Rosenfeld, Peter Donohue and myself.

Are the directors satisfied with the action of Goodall, Perkins & Co.?

I am not.

Have you disposed of your stock in the company?

I have.

What were the total number of shares represented in the capital stock?

Twenty thousand, of which Goodall, Perkins & Co. held between them 9200.

Peter Donohue, another director, was called upon and replied:

I confirm everything Mr. Babcock has said. It is perfectly correct in all particulars. Neither he, Rosenfeld nor myself had any knowledge of the sale until on the morning indicated, last Wednesday.

Can you assign any reason why they should have considered it necessary to adopt such a course.

I cannot. We were all friends. They say they have a right to dispose of their own stock as they think proper. The sale includes everything belonging to the company, not excepting the San Luis Obispo and Santa Maria railroad and including even the new steamship now being built for the company in the east and on which the sum of $250,000 has been paid. The capital stock of the company is $2,000,000.

Do you know what Goodall, Perkins & Co. got for their stock?

I do not. It has been a private deal with Villard.

Do you propose to sell your stock also?

What else can I do? We have got to take what we can get. They state just how much we are to have and we have either got to take that or go into the great northern pool.

You say members of the board have always been on the most friendly terms with each other?

Always; it was more like a private company. We never had any trouble or squabbling, and why they should have acted in the way they have is more than I can understand.

PERSONAL.

Hon. J. D. Lee of Dallas, is at the Esmond.

Lieut. Geo. W. Gode of the 1st cavalry has been ordered to Fort Klamath for duty.

Mr. L. A. Hall of San Francisco, general route agent of Wells, Fargo & Co., is in the city on official business.

Capt. E. D. Thorn of East Portland, for the past year in the employ of the Northern Pacific, superintending construction of mills, has returned home.

Professor Tiernan, the geologist, appointed by Mr. Villard to make examination of ore in the Spokane and Pen d'Oreille regions was in the city yesterday.

Miss Nellie Muzzy, who was teaching at Spokane Falls, has been appointed to fill the vacancy in Harrison street school occasioned by Miss Brimhall's temporary absence, and began duties yesterday. Miss Muzzy is a sister of Mrs. Ames of North school.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a meeting of the W. C. S. Union, held in the Congregational church on Wednesday, 23d inst., the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the members of this Union notice with great pleasure that the board of trustees, appointed under the act of 1872, have taken preliminary steps looking to the establishment of a reform school.

Resolved, That the character of the gentlemen composing the board is sufficient guarantee that the work entrusted to them will be carefully, thoughtfully and efficiently prosecuted to the end.

Resolved, That we hereby reiterate our willingness to aid them to the extent of our ability and bid them God speed. MRS. R. CLAWSON, Pres.

MRS. J. E. PHILIPS, Sec'y.

A GRACEFUL PLUNGE.

Launch of the Steamer "Yaquina" at Albina Yesterday.

At 2:30 yesterday afternoon the steam-schooner which has been building at the Albina ship yard during the past four months was launched into the Willamette. The Lurline carried a large invited party to the scene, and nearly a hundred ladies and gentlemen stood upon the decks of the handsome craft as with colors flying she gracefully made her maiden plunge. To Miss Helen, daughter of Mr. D. S. Tuthill was accorded the compliment of christening, and the little miss smashed a champagne bottle and bravely cried out "Yaquina" as the vessel passed down the ways.

The Yaquina is 130 feet long, 28 feet beam, 10 feet 10 inches hold, will carry four hundred tons of freight dead weight, and will steam nine miles per hour. In addition to steam power she will be topsail schooner rigged, and will spread her wings when the breezes favor. She is owned by Messrs. Z. J. Hatch and D. S. Tuthill, will be commanded by Capt. James E. Dennyland will cost when completed, two weeks from now, about $45,000. Her builder is Mr. E. Sorenson, who constructed many vessels now plying the northern lakes, and she is a credit to his skill.

After the launch, the Lurline ran alongside the Yaquina and escorted her to Pacific dock, where she will receive her rigging, cabins, etc. It is proposed to put her in the jobbing trade along the coast between Yaquina bay and Gray's harbor with Portland as the central market point, and she will sail with a full load for Yaquina on the 17th of next month.

The launch yesterday was completely successful. Promptly on time the lashings were loosened and without mishap the boat slid down into the water. Refreshments—an all important social feature—were not wanting, and all drank to the luck, speed and profit of the "Yaquina."

SMUGGLING WHISKY INTO ALASKA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

FORT WRANGEL, Nov. 18.—The usually quiet town of Fort Wrangel has recently had its ancient calm very much disturbed by the quiet movements of a very quiet man, Mr. J. S. Oakford, the new deputy collector of customs. That gentleman arrived in this, the chief business town of the territory and also the principal smuggling point, in September. He soon found that he had dropped down into a nest of illicit dealers in liquors, the like of which can hardly be found elsewhere on the whole Pacific coast. Immunity from punishment brings with it a feeling of fictitious security and boldness which are sure in time to betray the criminal into excesses and blunders that make it impossible for the authorities longer to refrain from action. Although the laws are very explicit, making it an offense punishable by heavy fine and imprisonment to bring any spirituous liquors into Alaska, yet there has been no lack of whisky of all degrees of vileness in Fort Wrangel. It has been smuggled freely into the town from both British and American steamers brought down the Stickine river from the notorious Choquette's, manufactured in the town from an astonishing variety of materials. One of the most prominent merchants of Wrangel has been at the head of this illicit trade, and the brilliant set of satellites that revolve around him have dispensed his liquor bountifully to whites and Indians. Of course there were other smugglers, but he was the chief. The authorities have heretofore done little to check this traffic.

Two years ago a large lot of liquor was brought up from Victoria by this merchant prince and lodged in the bonded warehouse, ostensibly in transit for Cassiar. Here it was stupidly allowed to remain until August of this year, the law making ten days the limit, beyond which liquor cannot remain in any warehouse while in transit. The design was evidently to get it out of the warehouse and sell it in the town, and two cases were actually abstracted by the importer and carried off on his shoulder from the warehouse, and the keeper of the warehouse, Mr. W. K. Lear, charged by him with the theft.

In August the liquor was shipped up the river and landed at Choquette's, just over the boundary line. Here was the most convenient point for smuggling it into the territory. Choquette was paid a small sum for storage, but not sufficient to insure his silence.

When Mr. Oakford arrived an expedition was about to start for the liquor, the design being to bring part of it to Wrangel and take the rest to Harrisburg. A large canoe was fitted out and manned by three whites and two Indians. The liquor was taken from Choquette's and brought down the river, the canoe proceeding some ten or fifteen miles towards Harrisburg. But one of the Indians got scared and ran away, coming to Wrangel and informing Mr. Oakford.

The smugglers then concealed the liquors securely, as they thought, and came to Wrangel with the empty canoe in search of the runaway. Mr. Oakford got hold of the other Indian and made him tell all he knew; arrested one of the smugglers, seized the canoe and then sent a party of Indians to find and bring in the liquor. They succeeded in getting 11 casks of whisky and rum, and 15 cases of brandy and gin. The three smugglers left by night for parts unknown. Their principal is under arrest and will probably have an interview with the Judge of the United States court at Portland soon.

Other liquor has been kept from coming into the territory, the dealers in that contraband article have been frightened from selling to the Indians and from importing, and Wrangel, especially the Indian portion of it, has not been so sober for a long time.

Mr. Oakford has earned and enjoys the respect and esteem of all respectable citizens of this part of the territory, and has already done much to secure good order among all its inhabitants and the civilization of the natives. Two other dealers in whisky have been frightened from the town.

MR. SHERIDAN'S RETURN.

The engagement of Mr. Wm. F. Sheridan here last summer, may be likened unto that of Miss Augusta Dargon four years before at New Market Theater. Both came to Portland almost unheralded, with nothing but their talent to arrest attention. Both had been thoroughly educated in the drama and had firm foundations on which to base claims for histrionic greatness and for public favor. Miss Dargon filled about the same place among the women of the stage that Mr. Sheridan does among the men. Both were highly appreciated by Portland, and both engagements were successful.

There will be many—very many—regular patrons of the theater to welcome Mr. Sheridan back tomorrow night in "King Lear," the play chosen for his second introduction here. His success in "Lear," the most difficult of all the characters created by Shakespeare, at the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco, and in interior cities, has been phenomenal. It was played fifteen nights in San Francisco to crowded houses—a run unprecedented in the annals of the legitimate drama. All the critics agree that Mr. Sheridan is the greatest "Lear" since Forrest. Reserved seats at Prentice's.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 29. 1881.

OLYMPIA MATTERS.

Legislative Points from our Special Correspondent—General Notes, etc.

OLYMPIA, Nov. 25, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It seems that every moment which brings us nearer to the close of the legislative session is fraught with some startling event. On Wednesday morning C. B. 123 was taken up, and the matter of the new county of was brought under the consideration of the lower house. With some difficulty it was ascertained that the new baby about to be born is the offspring of Columbia county, and its advent is as anxiously expected as was that of the daughter of the queen of Spain; although perhaps its future life may not have such an effect on the nations at large as that of the latter. The bill has been referred to a select committee consisting of Messrs. Freeman, Clark and Steen, and as was anticipated, a majority report signed by Messrs. Freeman and Clark, and a minority signed by Mr. Steen, were presented and accepted by the house; the majority recommending that the bill do not pass, the minority being of a contrary opinion. Mr. Freeman moved that the majority report be adopted, which is, I believe, contrary to the usual rules of etiquette in such assemblies, as such a motion is generally made by some one not of the committee, however, in this case it was different, and the speaker thereupon proceeded to put the question.

Mr. Steen then took the floor and informed the house that he was well acquainted with the county of Columbia, and that it was only since the bill was introduced in the house to change the county seat from Dayton to Pomeroy, that the matter of division had been seriously sprung. The gentleman referred to a petition now before the house containing 560 names of influential citizens, who have asked for a division, and he believed the only way in which this petty jealousy could possibly be settled would be to grant the prayer of the petition and divide the county. He fully believed that the upper end of the county, now to be called "Garfield," in honor of our late president, would be able to support her new honors and dignity. If left to him individually he would not like to see a division, but he did not believe in ignoring the petition of 600 good citizens, who fully understood their own wants and knew what they were asking for.

Mr. Freeman proceeded to reply to the various propositions submitted by the last speaker, especially in reference to the number and quality of names on the petition, some of which, he stated, hailed from Idaho, others were school children, and one was an Indian. The gentleman also referred to a discrepancy regarding the number of actual voters on the petition, at the same time accusing the father of the bill of taking away the rights of the people by making no provision for them in his bill, except giving them the school tax. He also believed that the matter on which the people petitioned had not been properly represented to them.

Mr. Clark gave the following reasons for supporting the majority report:

1. Because the line as set forth in the bill is not where a single one of the petitioners requested, or where the advocates of the measure acknowledge it should be.

2. The people have not demanded it.

3. Because the actual and bona fide petitioners of the age of 21 years and upwards, do not exceed 250 or 300 at most, out of a population of nearly 7000.

4. Because it is presumed that all the names were obtained during the smallpox scare, so that a free interchange of opinion was thereby prevented on the issue now placed before the legislature.

5. That the petitioners have been misled by an unfounded representation of the facts in the case by parties who have sought self-aggrandizement rather than the public good.

6. Because it is detrimental to the interests of the county, inasmuch as it will increase taxation.

7. That it ignores a right held near and dear to every American citizen—the right of representation in our legislative halls.

8. The issue was not raised during the canvass one year ago.

9. County seat question was the only incentive to what action has been taken to build up a place as desolate as the site where once stood the proud city of Babylon—a place, if I may except a flouring mill near by, populated by bullfrogs, snakes and buzzards. The question now submitted to your consideration is, "Do as you would be done by."

It having been suggested that Col. Hunter might throw some light on the subject, considerable discussion took place as to whether it would not also be well to invite Messrs. Ostrander, Stiles and Burk within the bar. However, the only motion carried was that inviting Col. Hunter; but the latter gentleman, after thanking the house for their courtesy, respectfully declined saying anything on the subject.

Mr. Kuhn presented the most fairly before the house and gave the members quite an insight into the status of the bill.

Mr. Judson favored the majority report on the ground that the matter had only been sprung within the past twenty days, and he believed in allowing the majority of voters to be represented.

Mr. Preston believed the pith of the matter lay in the fact of the question of changing the county seat, and he therefore asked the house to give the people a chance to decide on the question themselves.

Ayes—Messrs. Alexander, Catlin, Clark, Cornwall, Freeman, Holcomb, Judson, Preston, Smith (of King), Smith (of Klickitat), Taylor, Mr. Speaker—12.

Noes—Messrs. Allen, Dillon, Karr, Kincade, Kuhn, O'Neil, Raymond, Rees, Smith (of Whitman), Steen, Van Eaton and Warman—12.

So the motion failed. At the afternoon session on the same day the bill was tabled, subject to the order of the house, and what may occur yet regarding it a prophet could hardly tell.

Owing to the vast amount of business on hand, it has been found necessary to change the hour of meeting to 9 A. M., instead of 10.

TERRITORIAL PENITENTIARY.

The remarks already made regarding the institution above named have been fully corroborated by the report just submitted by the committee on penitentiary. The report refers to the want of sufficient warm clothing, the actual necessity for a change in the present shackle, and asks for an investigation in the case of a prisoner to whom clothing had been sent, but which had not been furnished him as requested. Stress was laid on the fact that a great deal of the sickness among prisoners in the penitentiary was caused by the use of the present shackle.

The bill appropriates $350 for 35 moveable shackles to be purchased by the governor, and Mr. Judson opposed it on the grounds of economy.

Mr. Holcomb believed the shackles now in use were relics of barbarism, and hoped the house would favor a humane policy even if it cost a few more dollars.

Messrs. Smith of King, Smith of Klickitat, Kincaid and Clark, made very appropriate remarks on the subject of the bill, after which it went to vote with the following result: Ayes, Messrs. Allen, Catlin, Clark, Cornwall, Dillon, Holcomb, Karr, Kincaid, O'Neil, Preston, Rees, Smith of King, Smith of Klickitat, Smith of Whitman, Steen, Taylor, Warman and Mr. Speaker, 18; noes, Messrs. Alexander, Freeman, Judson and Kuhn, 4; so the bill passed.

Mr. Judson moved to amend the title of the bill by making it an act for the purpose of setting the prisoners at liberty, but it was promptly voted down.

Another move in the right direction, concerning the same institution, was the passage of a bill to provide reading matter for the inmates of the penitentiary, and to provide for their moral culture.

A motion was made to strike out the section of the bill authorizing the governor to engage the service of some person or persons at an expense not to exceed $100, to visit the prisoners monthly and give them religious, Christian and moral advice when he found it necessary.

Mr. Judson was opposed to hiring a chaplain to pray for the convicts, but had no objection to furnishing them with reading matter.

Mr. Kincaid drew the attention of the last speaker to the fact that the legislature had a chaplain to pray for the members at the rate of one dollar per minute, and he believed the legislative assembly required praying for, just as much as convicts, if not more.

A motion to strike out the words "religious and christian" was lost, after which the bill was read a third time, and passed by 15 ayes to 8 noes.

NOTES.

I find I made a slight error in my last report by mentioning the name of Dr. Ostrander as the health officer, when it should have been Dr. Reilly. However, Dr. Ostrander is chairman of the health committee, and he together with the authorities are doing all they can to prevent the smallpox from reaching this place.

The Thanksgiving ball on Thursday, and the concert the evening previous, given for the benefit of the Michigan sufferers were both successful, financially and otherwise, the latter netting about $50 for the benefit of the unfortunates.

There is every reason to believe that an extra session of the legislature will be called to enable the code committee to finish their work.

The Sisters of Charity are holding a fair here which will continue till Monday.

The report of the committee on hospital for the insane is very flattering to the present officials, and certainly none deserve it more.

Rev. E. L. Wood has arrived and will hereafter officiate as pastor of St. John's Episcopal church in this city.

Thanksgiving was duly observed here by a general closing of all the stores.

The Port Townsend charter has been amended so as to go into effect from and after January 1, 1882.

PACIFIC COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

BAY CENTER, W. T., Nov. 16, 1881.

In response to a notice issued by the county superintendent, the teachers of the county met at Oysterville on Monday, October 31, for the purpose of holding a teachers' institute. Meeting convened in the school building at 1:30 P. M., and was called to order by Mrs. A. S. Bush, superintendent, who, after a short address, appointed C. A. Gilbert as acting president. G. W. Brown was chosen secretary. The afternoon was devoted mainly to perfecting the organization and the arrangement of performances. Adjourned at 4 P. M.

Tuesday, 9 A. M.—Meeting called to order by the president; and after music, and an invocation, followed by a short address by the president, the exercises from programme began.

1st. School Discipline, by Mr. Benson; discussed by Mrs. Bush and Mr. Rhodes.

Arithmetic, by Miss Brown; discussed by Messrs. Benson, Espy, Gilbert, Rhoades, Mrs. Bush and Rev. Mr. Sweeny.

Next was the "query box." Adjourned to 1:30 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

First exercise, reading by Mr. Gilbert; discussed by Benson, Mace and Mrs. Bush.

Geography, by Miss Clark; discussed by Mace, Benson, Gilbert, Rev. Sweeny, Mrs. Bush and Miss Brown.

Spelling, by Mrs. Bush; discussed by Revd. Benson and Mr. A. K. Bush.

Next was Query Box. This closed the exercises. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Gilbert for his services; also to Mrs. Griswold and Mrs. Clarke for the excellent music furnished by them through the session. Also to the people of Oysterville for their hospitality.

This is the first institute ever held in this county, and the attending teachers deserve much credit for the great interest manifested and their willingness to take part in the exercises. A goodly number of citizens attended and manifested their interest by frequently taking part in discussion. This is as it should be, there should be the closest of unions and the best of understanding between the patrons and the teachers of schools.

I am told that some of the school committees in different localities are in the habit of hiring the teacher who will teach the school for the least money, without regard to the ability of the teacher. This is a mistake, your schools will not rise above their masters; and people need not expect their schools to make such improvement as they should under such circumstances. Let the people demand well qualified teachers in their schools and they will soon have them; then the people will have good schools and the teachers good wages.

The institute at Oysterville indicates a desire on the part of several teachers, at least, for improvement. May the interest manifested there increase until Pacific county shall be among the first on the coast in educational development.

BEECHER AND THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

PORTLAND, Nov. 26, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Mr. Beecher is reported as having said in a late sermon, that Judge Cox was an imbecile at one end of a court, trying a vagrant fool at the other. I doubt the report. It is discourteous to the bench and unfair to the patient judge, who tries to hold the scales with a steady hand, though the beloved Garfield is in one balance and the hated Guiteau in the other. Besides Mr. Beecher knows from his own hard case, that it takes a long time to try such cases, the bigger the fool at the other end being the usual cause. Judge Cox cannot break through general rules to hang Guiteau instantly. There was a day when Mr. B. could have been hung by a lynch court for riding "on the ragged edge of despair" with the soft-eyed Elizabeth, and he ought not to savagely refuse a calm court hearing for the despairing fat office-hunter Guiteau. Every man has his penchant, if not his failing, and even the poor devil Guiteau should have his due.

And besides, Mr. Beecher ought further to recollect, in behalf of charity, if for nothing else, that Guiteau is the natural victim of his own teachings. How often has Mr. B. commended Abraham for daring to lay murderous hands on his own son at the command of a Jewish demon or tribal God. Nor should he forget that his teachings caused poor Freeman of Pocasset, to thrust his murderous knife through the heart of his helpless little daughter, because Abraham offered up his son Isaac in a blind faith. No man of Mr. Beecher's intelligence lives, but in his heart of hearts, knows that those murderous teachings are but the bloody myths of barbaric ages and utterly unworthy of the Caucasian intellect and organization; and Mr. Beecher further knows that he had much better be engaged with Bob Ingersoll in making a grand bonfire of all such horrible personations and perversions of the Great Spirit of the universe than to be holding up that bloody old insane father and monster, Abraham, to make Guiteaus with.

I will propose to Brother Beecher a subject for a future sermon: "An Amendment to the Murder Laws." Let it be enacted by all civilized peoples that hereafter all human life shall be sacred to its possessor; that there can be no lawful taking of the same except upon the verdict of a jury or in case of war; that all personal, voluntary, willful and knowing destruction of human life shall be murder in the first degree.

Such a law, established and practiced for a few years, would dissolve these supposed partnerships between God and assassins, and both religious and political cranks would consider their services uncalled for either for God or party when they knew that the sure end thereof was the hangman's rope and the gallows. Brother Beecher, these are stirring times, and great lessons are before the people. Those who can should use them for instruction, and not for detraction or malediction. Yours, etc.,

G. W. LAWSON.

MARION COUNTY'S VALUATION.

SALEM, Nov. 25, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It would seem that the total valuation of Marion county property should not be below that of Linn, and I will not undertake to explain why it is not. It is said one precinct was wholly omitted from the Marion assessment. At what rate property was valued in most of the other precincts of the county I do not know. But I think I am not wrong in saying that the valuation of town property in Salem, and of land surrounding the town, is as high in proportion to its market value as in any part of the state. So far as I have knowledge, it is higher than Portland valuations, taking into account market values. Most property which is for sale here, I think can be bought at an advance of not more than 25 per cent. on the assessor's valuation, and some for less, while not a little sold under the hammer, would bring less than the valuation. I know of one instance of property being sold at private sale for 12 per cent. less than the city assessor's figures. The city government has wanted revenue and has crowded valuations up all the property would stand, and the county valuation has not fallen far behind. The agricultural and vacant lands around the town I am told were this year valued some 25 per cent. more than formerly, and at from $60 to $100 per acre. That is certainly as much as the most of them are worth.

It must be recollected that there is an unusual amount of property exempt here. We have more than our proportion of church and school property, and public buildings. And it is possible a larger amount escapes under the indebtedness provision than in other places, though I cannot say such is the fact. Certainly much real property here has its valuation wholly or in part offset by indebtedness. It is not an uncommon practice to keep the title of such property in the name of the wife or some other member of the family who has no debts, and then have it assessed to another member who has debts and offset the same. Of course the statute does not permit this to be done, but it is done and stands. It is not improbable that this practice obtains in other parts of the state likewise. As Linn has less town property than Marion, and is supposed to have not more value in agricultural, timbered and brush lands, it would seem to follow that such lands have this year been valued at higher rates in the former than in the latter county.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Business at the wharves in California ships continues fairly active, and there is no doubt of two further departures in all this month. Shipments are varied, but chiefly of heavy goods and agricultural materials. Rates remain steady and firm, and an early advance is probable, as the supply of tonnage is likely to be small and higher prices paid for ships. Pacific Mail matters are unchanged, but it is probable that unless definite arrangements are made by December 1st the mail company will enter the market as active competitors.

Markets remain quiet. Wheat ½c. lower and fairly active.

Barley is in better demand. No. 1 bright Canada $1 16.

Provisions still neglected.

Rio coffee unchanged, active at a decline of ⅛c.

Refined sugars more active and firmer, with an advance of ⅛c. on some grades.

Hides in moderate demand and less firm.

Borax in fair demand; California concentrated 12; refined 12½.

Petroleum quiet and nominal.

Turpentine firmer; 57½ in barrels.

Rosin is in better demand; firmer.

A World of Good.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other bitters, as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old fashioned bone set tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

Mormonism has some redeeming features. For instance, it doesn't throw the burden of supporting a husband on one woman.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

FIREMEN'S ELECTION.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ELECTION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT ON MONDAY, the 5th day of December, 1881, there will be a general fire department election for the city of Portland for the election of one chief engineer and two assistant engineers. The polls of said election will be open at 10 o'clock A. M. and continue open until 4 o'clock P. M. of said day, at the house of Vigilance Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1 in said city. R. F. ASTHMA Quickly and Permanently

CURED

Dr. Stinson's Asthma Remedy is unequaled as a positive Alterative and Cure for Asthma and Dyspepsia, and all their attendant evils. It does not merely afford temporary relief, but is a permanent cure. Mrs. B. F. Lee, of Belmore, O., says of it: "I am surprised at the speedy effects of your remedy. It is the first medicine in six years that has loosened my cough and made expectoration easy. I now sleep all night without coughing." If your druggist does not keep it, send for treatise and testimonials to
